A Thought

A fool uttereth all his mind; but a wise man keepeth it in till afterward.
 Prov. 29:11.

He must be a thorough fool who can learn nothing from his own folly.

WASHINGTON INVESTIGATION

When the first startling revelations were brought out by the Senate Committee investigating the oil leases, the country was astounded and followed not only with deep interest but with a kind of fear the succeeding testimony. No one questioned the fact that the Senate had performed a great public duty in bringing to light an intolerable condition of affairs. With the passing of the days, however, the investigations have assumed a purely political aspect, and the country is rapidly losing interest in the mass of hearsay evidence and innuendo which is being spread upon the records, some of it from unworthy sources. People are beginning to ask whether the Senate has entirely lost sight of its primary duty—that of legislation. Although almost four months have elapsed, little has been done to follow the recommendations made by the President in his message, and tax reduction, the most vital of all, is still being considered in committee. There is an ever increasing pressure upon the President to demand of Congress that they attend to their first duties and give the relief which is so sorely needed by different sections of the country. Having asserted in no uncertain terms his own rights as the Chief Executive, the President has with entire fairness been slow to encroach upon the prerogatives of Congress. His first aim is the passage of legislation, and no thoughtful observer believes that this would be advanced by an open break with Congress. If, therefore, the President has remained silent, it is because his sole desire is to secure new laws and because he prefers to work by conference and personal contact with the help of popular opinion rather than in the more spectacular and less effective way of an attack upon the legislative branch.

Should the legislative branch of the Government, namely, Congress, not respond to the suggestion made by the President, it is more than probable that President Coolidge will apply pressure, as he is determined that legislation for the benefit of the country must be enacted into laws this year. The President has determined that a measure that will reduce taxes be passed, and will use all the power of his office to accomplish that result.

MELTON'S SUGGESTIONS FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT

The following suggestions for law enforcement are included in a pamphlet recently sent out by Andrew Melton, secretary of the treasury and appeal to us as being exceptionally valuable:

Give your co-operation and assistance to all enforcement officers.

Publicly and privately register your sentiment in favor of vigorous enforcement of the law.

Serve on juries when called.

Encourage public officials to acquaint yourself with the facts in order to refute the misrepresentations of propagandists.

Keep your daily conduct in strict obedience to the law, thus creating an example toward the law.

Confer with the prosecuting attorney, executive officer, or county judge as to the best methods of co-operation.

Report evidence of law violations to the local officials whose duty it is to enforce the law.

Follow up cases where sentence is suspended during good behavior, and report violations of court order.

Notify prosecuting officers when parties are arrested for second offenses, as, if the fact is proven, a more severe penalty is provided in such cases.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

Daily Leuten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.
TUESDAY
 The Selfish Man

Read Mt. 19:23-30. Text: "19:30. But many shall be last that are first, and first that are last."

"All badness, or sin, toward God is necessarily also sin against society, for God is set on producing a certain social result. The bad man sets himself against the great upward trend of the moral evolution of mankind, which the will of God is vitalizing. In the midst of an evolution in which all men ought to say, 'What the world needs we will all work together with the will of God to get,' he says, 'What I want I take.'"

Meditation: Whenever a man uses his possessions merely for his own gratification they become a curse, for they turn the stream of life back upon itself and dam the outflow of the spirit which alone enlarges life. The selfish man, however much he may have of possessions or position, finds himself growing in loneliness as these things cut him off from his fellows, until by closing all the windows of his soul he shuts himself away from all mankind.

Personal Question: What are the self-centered motives in my life?

Prayer: Almighty God, may there be springs of unselfishness in all our lives. May healing streams of benevolence and sympathy flow from us into the desert places of life. Let thy spirit dawn upon our lives. Let the darkness of sin and selfishness be banished from our souls, in Christ's name. Amen.

Information concerning law violations should be given to owners of buildings.

Send evidence of law violations by permit holders to state enforcement headquarters.

Show your appreciation and co-operation to officers who are doing their duty.

Obtained newspapers and editors for helpful, constructive publicity.

Protest in a dignified manner to the mayor, prosecutor, judge or other officer who fails in doing his duty and makes law enforcement a farce. One should give him every chance to do his full duty, however, before a protest.

Ask ministers to preach on law observance.

Train children in the home, the school and the Sunday school, to recognize obedience to authority.

Create public sentiment for law by talking it.

Whenever the Eighteenth amendment is condemned in your presence, speak your convictions courageously, but never in anger.

Commend newspapers that are outspoken for enforcement. Ask your editor for an editorial on law observance.

Make yourself familiar with the duties of officials of your locality, local and otherwise, as concerns law enforcement.

THE COUNTRY TOWN BALL TEAM

A recent editorial in the Boone County Recorder discusses the value of a ball team to a community. The time of the year is now approaching for ball fans of the many small as well as the big towns, to commence work. In the small towns the younger business men often have a team of their own. This would seem to be really more satisfactory than merely attending big league games, which is the way the city ball fan expresses himself.

In regard to small town baseball teams the Boone county paper says: "One of the best features that you can develop in a country town is a good ball team, which may be either a school team, or one drawn generally from the town's young men. Many country towns have very successful teams, and they are a big factor in making a country town seem attractive."

"The old timers looked at sports to some extent as a waste of time. But that point of view should have gone by now. A good ball team in a town inspires a lot of energetic young fellows with a spirit of ambition. Where other wise home surroundings and complaining about the dullness of their life, the idea of getting on the school team or town team gives them an object to work for. After they get on the team they have an incentive to practice.

YOUR NEWSPAPER

If there is anything in your town worth talking about, then about ten chances to one your own newspapers had a hand in putting it there. If anybody beyond the walls of your town ever learns that there is such a place as Middlesboro, it will be through the home paper. Every town gets its money's worth through the home paper. It's the wagon that carries all your goods to market. It ought to be kept in good repair. It will pay to grease it, paint it and keep its running gears in good shape and shelter. They are the guardians and defenders of every interest, the forerunners and pioneers of every movement, and the sturdy advocates of law and order.

The home newspaper is an institution that should be taken seriously by its advertisers and its readers.

SMOKE RINGS

You sit you down and take your pipe and fill it to the brim. You scratch a match to gain a lusty light. You puff away, a moment, say, and then your mind's in trim to dream, in smoky rings, away the night.

A ring will rise, of meager size and float out in the air. And with it goes the thought, "I've got the stuff. I'll do my work and never slack." The ring fades as you stare. So gently you will take another puff.

The ring above—a dream of love—this time will hold its shape and let you plan and think of future days. A dozen faces take their places—ones you can't escape. And then the smoke ring floats into a haze.

A third ring sent! Accomplishment is running through your brain. The power of getting somewhere in this world. Yet, then it seems, it's all just dreams, and very little gain, as in the air the smoke rings are unfurled.

Go on and puff; success is rough, but comes. If you will stick to what you plan when smoky rings are curled. Though smoke rings die; go on and try; mix good hard work with play, until you've woven rings around the world.

home ball team helps keep money at home, and when people go to other towns to see games they are pretty sure to spend considerable money that otherwise would be kept at home. And if you can develop a good ball team in your own home town, it must help to develop considerable trade from people who come in to see the games. It will pay the business men of a town to back up a home ball team.

"A good team can be developed anywhere if the players will take time to practice. Perhaps no form of organization that could be devised will do more to promote home town contentment and make young men satisfied with their home surroundings. Let's do everything we can to build up and support a strong team here in Burlington for the summer season."

Up walked the pin-cushion lady, her satin skirts spreading so far on each side that all the Doo-funny people had to pull their chairs away to let her pass.

"I hate court rooms!" she declared with a sniff. "They are such stuffy places. I'm accustomed to a lovely room all hung with velvet and lace, and I sit on the loveliest white bureau!"

"Oh, tush!" scolded Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "We know all about that. But you forget that was before you got all dusty and were thrown out like the rest of us and came to Doo-funny Land to live. Will you or will you not tell us why you fell on the wooden waddle duck and asked him to save you?"

"Of course! Of course!" said Mister Fuzz Wuzz hastily. "Well, what scared you, Mister Duck?"

"A most unusual thing," quipped the duck. "I was walking along Candy Street in Doo-funny Land as nice as pie when suddenly somebody landed-plump right on my back and threw her arms around my neck and yelled, 'Save me! Oh, save me!' It gave me such a turn that no wonder I skidded twenty inches out of my way right across traffic and scared the tin soldier's horse!"

I Heard Spring Call

I heard Spring call across the gray
And broken-clouded sky today,
And caught a faint elusive scent,
That swiftly on the east wind
Went,
Like some dim memory of May.

There is no least light build spray
Of white or green along my way,
And yet on some grave message
Sent,

I heard Spring call.

It sounded like some thrush astray
Too early, or some wistful Jay,
That begged a scrap of merriment,
Through storm and cloud I bid
Content,

Since beginning promise blithe and

I heard Spring call.

LIVING MODELS TO SHOW
SPRING STYLES TONIGHT

A great deal of interest is being manifested in the spring style show to be given with living models tonight at the Manning theatre. The display will be under the auspices of H. E. Verran and company, G. H. Talbott company, and A. D. Campbell and Brother.

The models will appear from the pages of a huge fashion book, depicting the very latest thing in coats, suits, dresses and millinery. The leaves of the book will be turned by little Jean Bryant and Dorothy Smith, who themselves will be models for H. E. Verran and company's children's apparel. The stage decorations will be spring flowers.

Misses Mary Skeen, Vivian Salmon, Ethel Kerr and Lucille Short will be models for H. E. Verran and company.

Homes of Nation Must Be First, Leaders Urge as Communities Mobilize for Better Homes Drive

MISS GRACE ABBOTT. MRS. THOMAS G. WINTER

That the homes of a nation are and must continue to be a thing of greatest importance to the women of that nation is maintained by some of the best-known women of the United States, who are devoting their time and energies to home improvement, under the auspices of Better Homes in America.

Among the national leaders on the board of directors of this organization are Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the United States Children's Bureau, Miss Abbott points out the urgency of better homes in America from the standpoint of the children of the country. Another earnest advocate of home betterment is Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and a member of the advisory council of Better Homes in America.

The Better Homes in America movement grew out of a speech of the late President Harding at Akron, Ohio in 1921, who declared that "the soundness of our social system and stability of our country are greatly enhanced by the development of love for a home, and the creation of a home that can be loved." The organization so

NEWS OF INTEREST TO HOME BUILDERS

WANT MODEST HOME? BUILD NOW PREDICTS RENTS WILL STAY UP

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Mar. 25.—If you can guess how long prices generally will stay high, you can judge pretty accurately how long your landlord will keep on soaking you, for rent, on your house or flat, about what you're paying now.

But you can't guess, points out Dr. J. M. Grier, chief of the commerce department of building and housing, because nobody now can tell how long money is going to continue being affected by the World War.

"It may be for years and it may be forever, the doctor thinks. Prices have risen before and then slumped, he admits, but sometimes they've stayed up; this may be one of those times."

So, from the standpoint of a family that wants a modest home of its own to live in, it's a good time to build.

Dr. Grier doesn't see much hope for the tenant for some time to come.

That is to say, not for the tenant of moderate means—on an income, say up to $3,000. Rentals on the type of houses and apartments the rich can afford have shown somewhat of a downward tendency lately, but not rentals on accommodations suited to purses of the "middle class."

There's an undoubted shortage in "middle class" houses. Then why don't landlords build to meet it?

DR. J. M. GRIER

"They say," explains Dr. Grier, if we knew prices were to stay up we would build but we can't risk building it, just after we've finished, prices are coming down again."

As for building materials, whole sale prices, which stood at 158 in January

HOW TO BUILD A HOUSE OF DIRT

(By Charles P. Stewart.)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 25.—If you want a house but can't afford it, build with ordinary dirt.

Wear? For centuries, the dirt turns to stone.

Cost? Nothing for the dirt. Day wages for a little unskilled labor. Whatever you please to pay for plumbing and other accessories.

All this is according to Edward W. Coffin, a well-known Washington mechanical engineer.

"It's a very old style of building," he says, "known as 'pise de terre,' which means 'rammed earth.'"

"Pise," the Roman, tells of its use by Hannibal, 150 years before Christ. Thomas Jefferson recommended it, but wood was too plentiful in America in those days. The oldest house in the United States, at St. Augustine, Fla., was built thus.

No Monopoly on Idea

Such a house, built, in 1773, stands in Washington today, better than when it was new. And Dr. H. B. Humphrey, Department of Agriculture, has just finished a rammed earth house here. City building inspectors say it's one of the solidest, best-built in town.

"The system is unpatentable—free to all.

"It solves the problem of cheap home building. A rammed earth wall's cost is less than half the cost of concrete, at least two-thirds less than subsidized frame.

Rammed earth mustn't be confused with adobe, soil or mud and straw.

"Any earth which clods in plowing will do. Pure sand won't pack. Clay cracks.

"Twelve per cent moisture in the earth is about right. It must be sifted, to break up clods and remove vegetable matter.

Ready in Six Weeks

"Only one mold form is needed, an advantage over concrete. But the mold must be very strong—at least 2-inch planked, heavily-braced, and held together by iron tie-bars.

The pressure of hard ramming is terrific.

"Put the mold on an ordinary foundation with hard times.

Finally, improving building methods, labor-saving machinery, standardizations, the broad general progress of the industry may have their effect, but Dr. Grier calculates this over a 10-year period, at least, so it doesn't signify much for the immediate future.

And anyway, he asks, what good will lower rents do unless incomes stay up?

All in all, now's a good time to build a house—to live in yourself!

In Lancaster, O., a man left $10,000 to the U. S., because he liked the government. The really strange part is he was a farmer.

If Henry Ford ever gets Musketion, Fill it 5 inches deep with sifted earth. Pound the earth with 15 to 20 pound iron rammers until it's so hard it rings, as a pavement rings.

"Then put in another 5 inches and repeat until the mold is full. After that, remove the mold, set it up again and go on.

"Openings are left for doors, windows, fire places and chimneys by putting blocks in the earth and taking them out when the earth around them has been rammed.

"During building the exposed sites won't be affected by rain, but the top should be protected, with tar paper or boards.

"After six weeks' drying, in ordinary summer weather, the wall becomes rocklike. It may be finished outside as desired—stucco, pebble dash, cement or tar. The inside may be treated in any of the usual ways—with color paint or plaster.

"The walls are 12 to 24 inches thick and will bear 100 times the weight put on any house. They will do for a building up to three stories high."

Shoals we intend to say his cheap fertilizer will make the south rich.

In Hickman, Ky., workmen found an ancient quart while tearing down an old building, so now no old building there is safe.

Boy, He's Hard!

"The toughest guy that ever came through our cells." That's the way Chicago detectives sum up Harry C. Thomas, 41, described as "the greatest single-handed burglar in the business." Thomas has confessed to 250 burglaries and robberies, 18 attacks upon women, one murder and sundry other felonies and other misdemeanors. Thomas "got religion" and walked into the detectives' bureau and made a clean breast of everything.

NEWS FROM HARLAN AND VICINITY

HARLAN COURT UPHELD IN CASE

Suit of Fordson Coal Co. Against State Bank Over Loss of $1800 Liberty Bonds

HARLAN, Mar. 25.—The Court of Appeals has sustained the Harlan Circuit Court in the case of Fordson Coal Co. vs. Harlan State Bank. This was a case involving the loss of about $1800 worth of Liberty Bonds bought by the coal company for the employees, and which were lost in the mails, it is said, by the reason of their being sent to the wrong post-office by the bank. The case determines some novel questions in regard to the liability for mistake in addressing mail. Judge J. E. Sampson is the attorney for the Fordson Coal Company.

THIEF GETS NEW SUIT OF CLOTHES OF HARLAN TAILOR

HARLAN, Ky., Mar. 25.—The apartment of Joe Primavera, above the Harlan Enterprise, on Main Street was broken into on Saturday morning and one new suit and other articles stolen. The robber smashed the glass door, put his hand through and turned the knob. Several persons on the street heard the crash of breaking glass, but did not suspect what was going on. Joe has a tailor shop, and had just finished the suit which had been stolen, and intended to wear it on a trip he was planning to take. Nothing else of value was taken, and it seems that the thief evidently knew of the suit of clothes and beat Joe to it.

THREE HARLAN YOUTHS TAKEN FOR GAMBLING

HARLAN, Mar. 25.—Officer Metcalf arrested three young men at the ball park Sunday, on the charge that they were gambling. The defendants, Grant Hopkins, Abe Hensley and French Ratler will be tried at the police court today.

Marriage Licenses Issued

HARLAN, Mar. 25.—The following marriage licenses were issued recently: Bill Woodward and Dossie Green of Cranks; Dallas Kelley and Mayme Weeks of Lejunior; B. H. Carter and Fronie McNeely of Lejunior; Albert Goodman and Mary McCull yesterday.

JAIL SENTENCE FOR SEXTETTE OF BLACK SONGSTERS

HARLAN, Mar. 25.—Three colored girls and three colored men were arrested Sunday night on Main Street near the depot bridge for being drunk. The way the jolly band of six carried on before the police officers arrived, it seemed that they were trying to sing the famous sextette from Lucia, and undoubtedly would have succeeded had they not been so enthusiastic in their attempt to spread joyful songs. Judge Green of the Harlan Police Court sang another song of $100 and thirty days, which evidently did not sound so good to their ears, and did not harmonize.

WOMAN JURORS NOT SO LENIENT

Give Liquor Offender Heavy Penalty—Masculine Jury Lets Companion Off Easy

HARLAN, Mar. 25.—Hobart Minard and Purdie Pendleton were tried in the County Court for being drunk, while in each other's company. Minard pleaded his case before a jury composed of women. The verdict returned was $100 and ten days in jail. Minard was also tried by the same jury for the transportation of liquor, and was found guilty of the offense and his fine fixed at $200 and twenty days in jail, making a total for both offenses, $300 and 30 days in jail.

Purdie Pendleton was then tried composed only of men, and they also found her guilty of the offense and fixed her fine at $10 which is the minimum penalty. Many people were in the court room attending the trial, and the result was much discussed.

FOUR MURDER CASES IN HARLAN COURT TODAY

HARLAN, Mar. 25.—Four murder cases are set for trial in the Harlan Circuit Court for today. The defendants are John Payne, Isaac Pennington, two cases, and B. Mount. The case of Ed Creel, charged with murder of John Creech, was continued yesterday.

HARLAN LEGISLATORS ACTIVE IN LAST GENERAL ASSEMBLY

HARLAN, Mar. 25.—Senator H. M. Brock and Hon. D. C. Jones, returned Sunday from Frankfort, where they had accomplished notable work. Mr. Jones was commented upon very highly throughout the state for his work in the Road Bond issue and in the abolishment of the office of Oil Inspector. The Oil Inspector bill was a sensational piece of work, being passed on the last day of the Legislative session, and was accomplished mainly through the brilliant efforts of Mr. Jones who delivered a stirring address, which brought forth the applause of the whole house.

Let's be real quiet about it and maybe the year will slip by without a non-stop dance craze.
